ELECTRODE

701

E6013 Blue Flux All Position Electrode

Blue flux coated electrodes suitable for joint and repair welding on mild steel in all applications of the metal-working industry. Having a stronger arc force and better penetration this results in higher strength joints, no cracking, defects or joint failures. The electrode is characterised by good bridge ability with easy ignition & re-ignition and low spatter, easy slag removal even on slightly rusty, primed, galvanised base materials and wrought iron.

- Specially coated for low spatter

TRIED, TESTED & GOOD TO GO!

Here's some feedback we got from kiwi engineering companies we asked to test the ELITE MIG Solid Copper Coated Welding Wire 801

Guys on the floor said it's good

Good

Yep, good

Our welders liked it. We'll stock it when it comes in.

Great. Let us know when more arrives.

Worked very well, we are changing over

Would be happy to change. Quite good.

Loved it. We will use it instead. Loved the foil wrap.

QUICKSTOCK™ Success Story: ATCO Steel Developments

'It's absolutely 110% improvement from the system we used to have. Before there was no control. There was a lot of wastage. You know. Whereby now at the moment it's quick, it's easy, it's neat. You know everything just works out. I cannot see us letting this system go any time soon.'

Chris Venter, Site Manager

The team at ATCO Steel Developments describe how QUICKSTOCK has helped them eliminate time and stock wastage, while gaining control over their usage.
